- (e) The LLC investing members have sufficient knowledge and experience in financial and business matters to be capable of evaluating the merits and risks of an investment in the Limited Liability Company.
- (f) The LLC investing members understand that the Limited Liability Company opportunity herein has not been registered under the Federal Securities Act or with any State Securities Agency in reliance on an exemption thereunder or transactions not involving any public offering, that the investment has not been approved or disapproved by the Securities and Exchange Commission or by any other federal or state agency, and that no such agency has passed on the accuracy or adequacy of the disclosures made in these Articles of Organization.

- (g) The LLC investing members are aware that no federal or state agency has made any finding or determination in regard to the above-referenced investment, nor any recommendation or endorsement, of said investment.
- (h) The LLC investing members are acquiring these Limited Liability Company interests for their own account, for investment purposes only, and not with a view toward re-sale or other distribution thereof, in whole or in part.
- (i) The LLC investing members will have no right to require registration of the Limited Liability Company interests offered herein nor, in view of the nature of this offering, is it likely or contemplated that such registration will take place. Moreover, it is unlikely that adequate current public information with respect to the LLC will be made available to permit resale of the Limited Liability Company interests pursuant to Rule 144 under the Securities Act. There can be no assurance that a LLC investing member will be able to liquidate his investment in the Limited Liability Company interests.
- (j) A LLC investing member who has received distributions from the LLC representing, in whole or in part, a return of his capital contribution, will be liable to LLC (or to its creditors) for any sum, not in excess of the amount of the return of capital plus interest, necessary to discharge the liabilities of the LLC to creditors who extended credit or whose claims arose before the return of capital. A LLC investing member also must hold in trust for the benefit of the LLC (and its creditors) any cash or other property distributed to him or her by the LLC if, at the time of and after giving effect to the distribution, the assets of the LLC did not exceed at its liabilities, other than liabilities to the LLC investing members on account of their capital contributions and liabilities to the managing members.
- (k) The LLC investing members are aware that the sole business of the LLC will be the production, distribution and marketing of the production, and the exploitation of the subsidiary rights therein. In such a venture the risk of loss is especially high in contrast with prospects for any profit. These Limited Liability Company interests should not be purchased unless the LLC investing members are prepared for the possibility of total loss.
- (l) The LLC investing members understand that the business of the production and exploitation of instructional video productions is highly competitive, highly speculative, and has historically involved substantial risks. The ultimate profitability of any video production depends upon its audience appeal in relation to its cost of production and distribution. Audience appeal, in turn, depends among other things, upon unpredictable critical reviews and changeable public taste, which cannot readily be ascertained in advance. Many completed video productions fail to generate sufficient revenues to recover their cost of production and distribution. Accordingly, there can be no assurance that the LLC will produce and exploit the production so as to enable the LLC investing members to recoup all or any portion of their capital contributions to the LLC or to yield profits to the LLC. The LLC investing members specifically acknowledge that the managing members have not made any representations relative to the potential success or profitability of the LLC activities hereunder.
- (m) The LLC investing members will not have a right to participate in the management of the LLC or in the decisions of the managing members. Accordingly, no LLC investing member will purchase any Limited Liability Company interests unless he or she is willing to entrust all aspects of management of the LLC to the managing members.

- (n) To date, there have been no activities undertaken by the LLC toward the distribution and exploitation of the production. Until the completion of the production and the initial exploitation of the production, the LLC will derive no receipts from the production. The managing members are unable to predict the timing or amount or receipts, if any, to be derived from the initial or subsequent exploitation of the production.
- After the production has been completed and initially exploited, the LLC may not be in a position to further exploit the production. In such event, it is anticipated that the managing members may grant agreements for exploitation rights to the production to third parties, which may reduce the interest of the LLC in the production. Further, the managing members may sell or license all or a portion of the LLC's interest in the production in order to borrow funds for additional exploitation of the production. If the LLC is unable to finance the cost of such further exploitation activities or enter into such agreements, the LLC investing members may suffer a loss of their investment. Neither the managing members nor the LLC investing members are under any obligation to provide in excess of their respective contributions to the capital of the LLC for such purposes. If the managing members believe that additional funds are necessary for the carrying on of LLC affairs, the managing members have the right to advance or cause to be advanced, or to borrow in the LLC's name, the amount that they deem necessary. Any monies so advanced, or caused to be advanced, or borrowed, may have to be repaid prior to the repayment to the LLC investing members of their contributions. The managing members shall also have the right to arrange for deferred payments payable prior to the recoupment by the LLC investing members of the original capital. If the managing members borrow additional funds in the LLC's name, or if the managing members arrange for deferred payments, such loans and/or deferred payments may result in a considerable delay in the repayment of the original capital or in the realization of net profits.
- (p) In the event of a dissolution of the LLC, the proceeds realized from the liquidation of LLC assets, if any, will be distributed to the LLC investing members only after satisfaction of claims of LLC creditors. Accordingly, the ability of a LLC investing member to recover all or any portion of his investment in the LLC in such circumstances will depend on the amount of funds so realized and the claims to be satisfied therefrom.
- (q) Payments to LLC investing members hereunder will not begin until after: (i) commencement of the distribution and exploitation of the production; (ii) the LLC's actual receipt of payment from the distribution and exploitation of the production; (iii) payment of any unpaid LLC obligations; and (iv) repayment of loans (plus interest) and/or deferments which were necessary to meet production and distribution requirements.
- (r) The LLC investing members shall specifically and in writing authorize immediate use of their contributions for production, distribution and marketing expenses related to the production. If the full capitalization of the LLC is not raised, LLC investing members who have invested in the LLC must rely on the ability of the managing members to reimburse them for their contributions. In the event the managing members have insufficient funds to make such reimbursements, the LLC investing members may never receive a return of their contributions.

(s) The LLC investing members acknowledge that the managing members have made available to them any and all of the information relative to the financial aspects of the LLC's operations hereunder, and the high risk nature of this type of investment, and the LLC investing members warrant, by their signature hereto, that they desire to proceed with this investment.

(t) The LLC investing members acknowledge that the managing members need not devote their exclusive time and efforts to the affairs of the LLC, and that the managing members may participate in other business ventures, and the LLC investing members shall not be entitled to any interest in such ventures.

- (u) The LLC investing members understand the meaning and legal consequences of the risk factors contained herein, and the LLC investing members hereby agree to indemnify and hold harmless the managing members and its officers and agents from and against any and all expenses, fees, losses, damage or liability, including reasonable attorney's fees, due to or arising out of a breach of any representation or warranty of the LLC investing members, whether contained in these Articles of Organization or not.
- (v) The managing members may abandon the production of the production at any time for any reason whatsoever.
- (w) The LLC intends to engage in a highly competitive business. Competition is encountered in different phases of the video industry and during the production phase of the video, competition will have a material effect on the employment of personnel of the video and the cost thereof. After the completion of the production phase, the video will, upon its distribution, be competing with other videos, and, indirectly, with other forms of instructional media and entertainment. Furthermore, the LLC will be competing with numerous larger production companies which have substantially greater financial resources and larger experienced production and distribution staffs than the managing members and which have longer established histories of production and distribution of productions. Certain of these larger companies have, from time to time, encountered financial difficulties, which reflect the highly competitive character of, and adverse developments in, the video industry as well as the unpredictability of public reaction to videos.
- (x) To date, there have been no production and exploitation activities by the managing members. Until the completion of the production and the initial exploitation of the production, the LLC will receive no receipts from the production. The managing members are unable to determine the timing or amount of receipts, if any, to be derived from the initial or subsequent exploitation of the production.
- (y) The LLC investing members fully understand that they are not to construe the contents of these Limited Liability Company Articles of Organization as legal or tax advice. Each LLC investing member should consult its personal counsel, accountant and other advisors as to the legal, tax, economic and related aspects of the Limited Liability Company opportunity described herein, and as to the suitability of this opportunity for each LLC investing member.
