December 27, 2004

To Whom It May Concern:

We have enclosed a check in the amount of $183.75 to cover the corporate renewal for 2002 through 2004. Our check does not include the late payment fee; we ask that you waive it due to the following circumstances.

When this condominium association was still under developer control, they established a corporation for a condominium association and a commons association in the same name. Each had a separate FEI number. When it was turned over from the developer to the previous management company, both corporations were renewed. When we took over management in 2002, we only received the commons renewal. In 2002, the condominium association renewal was under the wrong address and thus never received, so the corporation was dissolved. We were not aware that there were two corporations and we were renewing the wrong one.

Since 2002, we have been paying the renewal for the commons, thinking we were paying for the renewal of the condominium association. We even changed the FEI number to the condominium association FEI number, again not knowing there were in fact two separate corporations.

I know that this is confusing, but we ask that you accept the fees for 2002, 2003, & 2004 without penalty and to reinstate the condominium association corporation. We will no longer be funding the commons association, so it will be dissolved.

We appreciate your consideration in this matter. If you have any questions about this, please feel free to contact our office at (239) 649-5526.

Sincerely,

Barbara Knoll
