Dear Sirs;

I am writing this letter with deep regret as I sincerely hold in the highest regard the work in which you are engaged. Most unfortunately, I am presently embroiled in personal problems involving my two young sons and the matter requires so much of my time and personal attention that I am unable at this time to extend myself at all on behalf of your organization and I must resign from my involvement with the Foundation.

It is my hope that we may work together again at some time in the future once my own pressing issues have come to some resolution. In the interim, please feel free to call upon me if I can be of any assistance to you.

Very truly yours,

Robert Dubinsky
