ARTICLE III,

H10000159919

Mission Statement: To create a well-informed citizenry in Cuba and other countries by reversing and counteracting governmental censorship and control of information and news available to the people.

Proposed Program Goals and Objectives:

- To break Cuba's and other countries information blockade through systematic forwarding and facilitating of data not available to the people, targeted to specific in-country groups.
- To provide same through various media formats, such as websites, blogs, e-mails, letters, books, brochures, cell phones, flash drives, bluetooth and others technologies to promote civil society activity and actors in and through the field of communications and information.
- To promote the emergence in Cuba and other countries of independent specialized press, radio and TV networks.
- To design and implement new blogs and e-mails for use of in-country civil society actors, and help create new grassroots leadership in the field of communications and information services.
- To provide information in every possible field of interest to power groups within the Nomenclature and public sectors.
- To facilitate internet access to younger generations of citizens -men and women 35 years and under- particularly university students and graduates.
