14. Furthermore, costly fixed overheads of administration and plant will then become substantially harmonized and done, not specially for the requirements of each of the three. Standardization, therefore, results in that the administration overheads per unit of output or of additional output repeat, that is, in totals and that the separate units have the same depreciation rate, it follows under such conditions that the cost of production of the separate units of output or of additional output will be the same as that of the other units.
