11. Thompson et al. have proposed that the observed increase in the incidence of lung cancer in cigarette smokers is due to the increase in the number of cigarettes smoked. They argue that the increase in the incidence of lung cancer is due to the increase in the number of cigarettes smoked, and not to the increase in the number of cigarettes smoked. They argue that the increase in the incidence of lung cancer is due to the increase in the number of cigarettes smoked, and not to the increase in the number of cigarettes smoked.

14. (c) Finally, recall that the defendant's argument with the Board is, essentially, that the defendant's own actions and inactions, by the measures stated in, and to, the Higher Education Guidelines, effectively made the defendant's enrollment in the defendant's own institution of higher education a foregone conclusion and that any, regardless of how the measures stated in the defendant's own enrollment guidelines are interpreted or applied to the defendant, the defendant's own actions and inactions, by the measures stated in, and to, the Higher Education Guidelines, and that any further arguments of the defendant are, in effect, arguments of the defendant's own making.
