Being 72 years old, I decided to downsize last july. I sold my house and have moved into a 5th wheel trailer called a toy hauler. I utilize the back space as my leather shop. I now have it in working condition and have started making various items.

Having gone thru 11 hurricanes , 3 earthquakes no tornados, I figure it is time for me to be mobile, so when hurricanes come again, I will be heading north or west to get out of the way. Also, Taking care of the house and grounds was getting to be to much for me.

Since I have been also making leather items for those persons in civil war re-enactments I will be moving north this summer to Virginia and Penn states as some have asked me to move up there with them. I want to get to Gettysburg and see that battle re-enactment.

I will always receive my mail at my postal address as my daughter will always know where I am at and forward my mail.

The local office advised me that while out of state I don't have to collect sales tax but still have to file a tax report. If there is any change from this please advise.
