Our oceans are critical to the survival of those of us who live on this brilliant beautiful blue marble so isolated in the inky blackness of space. The creatures and plants, along with all of the hidden treasures that lie beneath the waves of our hydrosphere ultimately impact our daily lives. Without the benefit of the ecosystems contained within the oceans, we may not survive as a species; however, for those of us that do survive, the oceans may cease to be a source of food for the majority of Earth's population. As a result, an apocalyptic future involving massive starvation, war, and population shifts of epic proportions ensues for all of us.

Education is a key element in shaping the future of mankind and our planet. Therefore, NeptuneRex strives to provide a widely known and highly respected not-for-profit source for boundless and cost-free educational materials for the purpose of non-commercial instructional use in teaching both children and citizens of the world about the desperate need to preserve our oceans and all the creatures therein for the future benefit of mankind.

NeptuneRex provides a cost-free source of educational materials for use in educating the citizens of the world about the desperate need to preserve and protect our oceans and all the creatures therein.
