Good Morning Becky,

As per your request, I was writing to address the mistake which was done on the reinstatement of Orlando Perez's Corporation Everest Investment Group, LLC. I do help Orlando with his bookkeeping and have assisted with his corporate affairs in the past and inadvertently assumed he missed the reinstatement of Everest not knowing he does not operate the Corporation any longer.

Please excuse my mistake and do not punish Mr. Perez my withholding refund of his $660.

Jeannette

Good morning,

In order to proceed the person who filed it (your account) will need to provide an email stating he had no authority to file the reinstatement.

I understand your stance but my accountant has no authority or affiliation with the company. I do not use or need this company to be reinstated and a $600 charge in this climate is crushing to my finances. I was furloughed for over 4 months and need these funds more than ever, it was a mistake and I called you the same day. Please make a exception and refund me this fee.

Mr. Perez,

The only time the reinstatement and or Annual Report is refunded is if you have no authority and affiliation with the company.

Unfortunately since it is public recorded it cannot be voided and or refund.
