AUDIT NO: H080000694163

Article V – Purpose and duration of company

The purpose for which the Company is formed is to engage in any lawful acts or activities for which limited liability companies may be formed under Section 608 of the Florida Statutes or any successor statute. The Company shall have the authority to do all things necessary or appropriate to accomplish and operate its business as described in this Article, including, but not limited to such powers set forth in Section 608.404 of the Florida Statutes, as amended from time to time. The Company shall have a perpetual existence.

Article VI - Restrictions on Member's Transferability

Each member's interest is subject to certain restrictions on encumbrance, assignment or transferability as set forth in more particularity in the Operating Agreement executed by the members. A new Member may be admitted into the Company only if: (i) a majority, in interest, of the Members approve of such admission; and (ii) said new Member executes such instruments as the majority Members determine are necessary or desirable to effect such admission and to confirm the agreement of the person or entity being admitted to be bound by all of the covenants, terms and conditions of the Operating Agreement of the Company. Each Member's ability to withdrawal from the Company is restricted pursuant to the Operating Agreement of the Company.

Article VII - Continuation upon Event Constituting Termination

Upon the death, retirement or resignation of a member, provided that at least one member remains, the company shall continue operations unless a majority of the remaining members present and eligible to vote at a special meeting vote to terminate the business of the company. In the event of dissolution of the company, the business affairs of the company shall continue to be governed by the terms of the operating agreement during the winding up of the company's business and affairs.

Article VIII – Treatment as a Sub-S for IRS Purposes

Initially, and until otherwise designated by the vote of a majority of members of the company, the company elects to be treated as a subchapter S (Sub-S) corporation for federal income tax purposes.
