Yes the Registered Agents information has to be in the state of Fla. All others can be out of state or country.

Thank you, Erin. I will work to get you all of the new information to file later this week.

Can I be the registered agent with an address not in Florida? I thought that was not the case, and if I'm correct I want to make sure I understand what needs to be done to set up a FL-based RA. Thanks, Erin.

Hi Erin,

Just a quick note to touch base after the weekend, and also to follow up on the registered agent question below. Any insight you might be able to provide on that topic would be greatly appreciated as I want to make sure I'm getting your group all the information it needs in order to remain in total compliance going forward. Thank you, Erin.

Thank you, Erin. I should have the new address next week, and will send the information to you ASAP.

One more question for you: what are the requirements for a Registered Agent? The reason I ask is this -- I am a one person real estate brokerage firm. I want to make sure I take care of whatever is needed so that the registered agent is recorded properly. Any insight you might be able to provide would be greatly appreciated.

To Whom It May Concern,

I created a pair of new LLC entities in March of this year, and am about to move to Minnesota. Can you please advise what you need from me in terms of amending your information on file with these new addresses? Is there anything I need to do outside of simply changing the mailing addresses in your system?

Thank you in advance for all of your help. It is greatly appreciated.
