Dear Sirs,

Earlier this year approximately in April we mailed the corporation application together with check #2077 in the amount of $150.00. A few weeks later we received the application and check back from your office with a note explaining that we had omitted a signature. We promptly signed the application and returned it together with the check to your office. We thought you had received it since there were no other notices from you as to the contrary. Until, that is, we received a notice from your office in November stating that our corporation was being dissolved for lack of receipt on your part of the afore mentioned application. At this point I contacted your office with regards to this matter and upon explaining the situation to your agent we were advised to put it in writing and enclose a new application and check in the amount of $150.00 at which time you would review the events and would most likely reinstate the corporation accepting the original amount of $150.00. Please be assured that we were not aware our original documents had been lost. Thank you for your attention in this matter.

Sincerely,

Eugenio Vega, President
