Article IV

By laws.

Listed below are the descriptions of everyone positions. Please read them vigilantly and make sure that they are fulfilled.

Treasurer/CFO Chief Financial Officer:

The executive who is responsible for financial planning and record- keeping for a company.

The employee at this company is responsible for the collection, maintenance, investment, and disbursement of funds.

Secretary:

Person who organizes information and work on behalf of another person (usually the boss)

Chief Executive Officers (CEO)/President:

Top executive responsible for a firm's overall operations and performance. He or she is the leader of the firm, serves as the main link between the board of directors (the board) and the firm's various parts or levels, and is held solely responsible for the firm's success or failure. One of the major duties of a CEO is to maintain and implement corporate policy, as established by the board. Also called President or managing director, he or she may also be the chairman (or chairperson) of the board.

Vice President

One of the highest ranking employees in a company, just underneath the President of the company. Although the vice President is usually subordinate to the President, he or she is still very important and will often work closely with the President and other high-ranking employees.
