1. Introduction: The study aims to investigate the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on the mental health of healthcare workers in the United States.

2. Methodology: A cross-sectional survey was conducted using a validated questionnaire to assess the mental health status of healthcare workers. The survey was distributed online and received responses from 1,200 healthcare workers across various medical facilities.

3. Results: The study found that a significant portion of healthcare workers reported symptoms of anxiety, depression, and stress. The prevalence of these symptoms was higher among those who had direct contact with COVID-19 patients compared to those who did not.

4. Conclusion: The findings suggest that the COVID-19 pandemic has had a profound impact on the mental health of healthcare workers. Further research is needed to explore the long-term effects and to develop interventions to support their mental well-being.
