AIPSA - INTERNATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF AVIATION SECURITY PROFESSIONALS

AIPSA - Is an international association (NGO) NON-GOVERNMENTAL ORGANIZATIONS, made up of professionals in international civil aviation security against acts of unlawful interference (AVSEC) with specialized knowledge, expertise, experience and qualifications of its members.

AIPSA - Among its objectives, it has the idea of strengthening with its professionals the professional improvement and knowledge in the different areas, as well as its new aggregates on the identity and management of border controls), cybersecurity and all its forms and manifestations constitute one of the the most serious threats to international peace and security

AIPSA - Within its vision and mission, it contributes to the Convention on International Civil Aviation (Chicago) and others applicable to this matter developed over the years and especially with annex 17 of aviation security, as well as the guidelines of the recent Resolution 2309 of the United Nations Security Council and the Global Aviation Security Plan (GASéP) of the International Civil Organization ICAO

AIPSA - Based on Resolution 2309 of the United Nations Security Council

- Reaffirms its commitment to sovereignty, including sovereignty over the airspace that encompasses the territory of a State, the territorial integrity and political independence of all States in accordance with the Charter of the United Nations,
- Recognizes the vital importance of the global aviation system to economic development and prosperity, and that all States strengthen aviation security measures to ensure a stable and peaceful global environment, further recognizing that safe air services to this respect enhance transportation, connectivity, trade, and political and cultural ties between States, and that public confidence in the safety of air transport is vital,
- Notes that the global nature of aviation means that States depend on the reciprocal effectiveness of their aviation security systems for the protection of their citizens and nationals, as well as aspects relevant to their national security, and bearing in mind the common goal of the international community in this regard, which means that States depend on each other to provide a common secure aviation environment

AIPSA - Additionally, it avails itself of a set of areas of interest from both ICAO and the key contribution to facilitating the application of the United Nations Global Strategy against Terrorism (A/RES/75/291) and numerous resolutions of the Council of Security related to the fight against terrorism, aviation security and facilitation (Identity and border control management) and cybersecurity.

AIPSA takes advantage of and facilitates the specialized knowledge, expertise, experience and qualifications of its members, to optimize resources and maximize results for members and the States where they belong, in a concerted manner, we will strive to strengthen the capacity of members and promote a broader culture of collective responsibility, as well as effective and collaborative responses to international terrorist threats, while simplifying and streamlining travel requirements for the vast majority of low-risk, legitimate passengers who use our air transportation network.
