To Whom It May Concern,

I called your department to follow up on a question that I did file a 2005 annual report with changes to our address and deletion of our secretary. I mailed the online form certified return receipt and paid $150.00 and $8.75 to receive a certificate per instructions. After following up to do my 2006 annual report I have discovered that it was never changed or filed even though I received a signed and dated certified receipt from your office. I also never received a certificate, which I paid for. I am enclosing a copy of those records from my files and ask you to investigate if it was processed. Per my phone conversation with your employee, he stated I should write a letter with my 2006 re-instatement for you to not charge me any late fees incurred due to this error and still not receiving notice to renew at the correct new address, which is listed on this letter head as well as on my 2006 form. He informed me to mail a check for $150.00 for the 2006 corporation annual report (or re-instatement) and if I wanted a certificate of status to also enclose a check for $8.75. I am enclosing these checks and hope that this matter has been rectified. If there are any questions or anything else that we need to do, to be up to date please let us know at the above address. We want to make sure all of our paperwork is in order for the business. Thank you very much for your time in investigating this matter.
