finally determines, after all appeals are exhausted or if such appeal is not pursued by the proposed indemnitee, that he or she did not act in good faith or in a manner he or she reasonably believed to be in the best interests of the Corporation and, with respect to any criminal action or proceeding, that he or she had reasonable cause to believe his or her conduct was lawful, and (b) such court also determines specifically that indemnification should be denied under the underlying circumstances giving rise to such proceedings. The termination of any action, suit or proceeding by judgment, order, settlement or conviction or upon a plea of nolo contendere or its equivalent shall not, of itself, create a presumption that a person seeking indemnification did not act in good faith and in a manner which he or she reasonably believed to be in the best interest of the corporation, and with respect to any criminal action or proceeding had reasonable cause to believe that his or her conduct was not unlawful.
