I am writing concerning the penalty fee associated with filing a late return. We incorporated last year, and I personally handled all the paperwork. Last year I hired an office manager; one of his tasks was to handle any paperwork concerning our corporate status. I was working at another location for much of this year, in Starke, FL, performing a lot of on-site service work for various companies.

To make a long story short if it isn't too late already, my office manager placed this and the original form into an inbox he thought I was handling. I was not made aware of this inbox for me. Since I never saw either form until fall cleaning this week, I had no idea we were in a penalty situation already.

I am humbly asking that the penalty fee be waived in this instance. I do admit we received the proper forms, but an honest miscommunication, and not blatant disregard for proper filing times, was responsible for our delinquency. I encourage you to check our sales tax payment history. Nearly every month is on time, we get the 2.5% discount almost every time.

I thank you in advance for your consideration. Please feel to contact me with any questions you may have.

Sincerely,

Doug Heuer,
