However, there can be no assurance of profitability during periods of declining or rising stock, bond and real estate markets and the trading may be unprofitable (or profitable during periods of generally favorable economic conditions).

ADMINISTRATIVE CONVENIENCE The WALL STREET DIRECT, relieves the Investor of the need to attend to the administrative details in engaging directly in the trading activities to be conducted by the Company, such as bookkeeping, reviewing confirmations and other reports, and maintaining relations with banks, brokers and dealers.

THERE CAN BE NO ASSURANCE THAT THE COMPANY WILL MAKE PROFITS

OR WILL BE ABLE TO AVOID INCURRING SUBSTANTIAL LOSSES

Other Risk Factors

The Company is a new venture in a high risk business. Investment in the Company should be made only after consulting with independent, qualified sources of investment and tax advice. Among the risks involved are the following:

1. Investment Strategies. The Company's investment strategies involve substantial news, including but not limited to the following:

a. Stocks and Options prices are highly volatile. Price movements for Stocks and Options, may be influenced by, among other things, changing supply and demand relationships, trade, fiscal, monetary, and exchange control programs and policies of governments domestic and foreign political and economic events, change, in domestic and foreign interest rates and rates of inflation, currency devaluation's and reevaluations, and emotions of the marketplace. In addition, governments from time to time intervene, directly and by regulation, in certain markets. Such intervention is often intended to influence prices directly. The Company is also subject to the risk of the failure of any of the exchanges on which the Stocks or Options will be traded or of its clearinghouses.

b. The low margin deposits normally required in stock trading (typically between 30% and 50% of the value of the Stock purchased or sold) permit a high degree of leverage. Accordingly, a relatively small price movement in a contract may result in immediate and substantial losses to the investor. Like other leveraged investments any trade may result in losses in excess of the amount invested.

c. Unites States Stock exchanges do not limit fluctuations in certain Stock or Option prices during a single day. During a single trading day, no trades may be executed at prices beyond the daily prices. Stock or Option prices have moved with little or no trading. Occurrences could prevent the Investor from promptly liquidating unfavorable positions and subject the Company to substantial losses, which could exceed the margin initially, committed to such trades. In addition, even if contract prices have not moved trades may not be able to be executed fit favorable prices if little trading in the Stock or Option involved is taking place.

d. The Company's investment strategies require liquid, properly functioning markets. In extraordinary circumstances, the liquidity of some trading insurgents may be impaired and pricing mechanisms may not function properly. The Company might be exposed to substantial loss should it find it necessary to liquidate positions under such conditions.

e. The trading approach of the Company may not be successful and thereby may cause the Company to incur losses on the positions that it initiates. Market volatility may not be as expected, thereby affecting the success of trading strategies.

2. Restrictions on Liquidity of a Company Investment.

There is no market for Stocks in the Company, and none is expected ever to develop. Consequently, Investors in the Company may not be able to liquidate their investments in the event of an emergency or for any other reason.

3. Dependence on Principals of the Company.

The principals of the Company have the authority to control the management of the Company, including the selection of its investments. If for any reason the Company were to lose their services, the Company might be adversely affected.

4. Indemnification of Officers, Advisers and Consultants.

The Company will indemnify the Officers, Advisers and Consultants against any legal action. This especially with regard to recover losses or cost incurred by the Company as a result of the actions taken by the Officers, Advisers or Consultants.

5. Conflicts of Interest and Responsibility of Officers, Advisers and Consultants.

The responsibilities of the Officers, Advisers and Consultants to the Company include making investment decisions for the Company and engaging banks, brokers and dealers to execute trades on behalf of the Company. The following potential conflicts of interest must be reconciled with these and other responsibilities and should be considered by prospective investors.

6. The Officers, Advisers and Consultants are free to manage accounts for the Company. It is possible that orders for the account of the Company or its principals may be entered in advance of the Company for legitimate and explainable reasons, a different trading program, or a higher risk level of trading. However, any such proprietary trading is subject to the duty of the Officers, Advisers or Consultants to exercise good faith and fairness in all matters effecting the Company's accounts.

7. The Officers, Advisers and Consultants will make all trading and investment decisions on behalf of the Company. If the Company's trading and investment activities were unsuccessful, it would in theory be possible for the Company to start legal actions against its Officers, Advisers or Consultant. The Company, its Shareholders, Lenders or Investors agree not to start any legal actions against its Officers, Advisers or Consulting in the event of losses out of the activities by these representatives.

8. Cash distributions to the Investors will be completely at the discretion of the Officers, Advisers or Consultant, and the Company does not currently intend to cause the Company to make such distributions. If the Company has realized profits for a taxable year, such profits will be taxable to the Company even though cash may not be distributed to the Investors. Also, the Company may sustain losses offsetting such profits after the end of a fiscal year, so that Investors may never receive all of the profit on which it is taxed.

9. The Company has not registered as an investment company or "mutual fund" which would be subject to extensive regulation by the Securities and Exchange Commission under the investment Company Act of 1940, nor has any Officer, Adviser or Consultant registered as an Investment Advisor under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 or any similar state law.

10. There is the possibility that institutions, including banks and brokerage firms, with which the Company does business will encounter financial difficulties that may impair the operational capabilities or the capital position of the Company.

11. Use of Proceeds

Investments in the Company will be used to trade Stocks and Options for the Company. All trading activities of the Company will be executed on US regulated exchanges and will be subject to state and federal regulations.

Investment proceeds may initially be held in cash reserves consisting of cash equivalents and other highly liquid securities. The cash reserves will be used to acquire Stocks or Options in various Stocks or Options, to pay option premiums, and to post margins on Stock positions.

EXPLANATION OF ALL OF THE RISKS INVOLVED IN INVESTING IN THIS COMPANY.
