Dear Roseanne Varnadore,

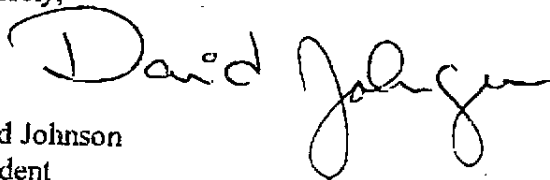

On June 5, 2000, we filed Articles of Incorporation with your office to incorporate under the name "Sonshine Communications, Inc." This request was granted, however, on June 28, 2000, we were notified by your office that this name had been assigned in error and needed to be amended because of a name similarity to another existing corporation.

At this point, we attempted to get in touch with the registered agent of the corporation in question, first, by telephone, and then by certified letter. Both attempts to contact the other party were unsuccessful. We also found that this corporation has not renewed their corporation status with your office this year.

We feel that there will be no conflict with us using the name "Sonshine Communication, Inc." as our DBA. Therefore we hereby release the Division of Corporations from any responsibility resulting from conflict arising from our name selection.

Please do not hesitate to contact me should you have questions or comments.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "David Johnson". The signature is written in a cursive, flowing style.

David Johnson
President
