To Whom It May Concern:

I have written several letters to the state trying to resolve this matter but every one of them has fallen on deaf ears. I would truly like to avoid having my business dissolved, however, being a small corporation it would impose a severe hardship to pay $750. As a matter of fact, my previous 2 letters dealt with this issue. Because this is my first corporation I was not expecting the corporate renewal letter in the mail. Additionally, the mailing address for The Network Doctor has changed and this caused a delay in correspondence reaching me. If I may ask for your understanding on this bill I will watch for renewal letters in subsequent years and ensure that they are paid timely.

Is there anyway that the fees could be reduced to a more manageable amount?

Thank you for considering this request.

Charles Sowers

To Whom It May Concern:

In an effort to resolve my continuing problem regarding my corporate name please let me do this. Let me change the address you have on file to my home address. Of the three pieces of correspondence you reference, I have not received any. I believe there to be a problem with the postal carrier at my office and have informed the post office about this. However, because I need to resolve my corporate name dilemma let me have you send all further correspondence to:

The Network Doctor

Thank you for your consideration.
