RISK FACTORS

An investment in the shares offered hereby is speculative, involves a degree of risk and should be made only by investors who can afford the delay of repayment or even the loss of part or the entire investment. Each prospective investor should carefully consider the following risk factors, in addition to all of the other information provided by the company, their representatives or other marketable studies. An investor has one week (seven days) after the recede of this company's Articles of Incorporation to withdraw the investment amount and request a full refund of any and all funds deposited with the company, the companies representative or trust account agent in the event the decision to invest in the company has changed for any or none reason.

SUBSTANTIAL AND CONTINUING LOSSES

Substantial and Continuing Losses, Sale of Significant Assets. Minimal Revenues The Company is in the Real Estate business. Many factors are important with regard to the day to day operation of the Company. Market conditions regarding rental and sell of real estate property are constantly changing. Interest rates, occupancy, natural disasters, fire etc. are only some of the many factors which can and will influence the operation and success of the Company. Especially with regard to condominium conversion, the sale of condominium units, the Company is dependent on factors which may not be under the control or influence of the Company.

INTEREST OR DIVIDEND PAYMENT

Interest or dividend payments to investors may also be influenced by factors which can not be foreseen. During the time of condominium conversion and the sell of the individual units there may be vacancies necessary in order to achieve the Companies goal. Model apartments, evictions, condemnation by the City or needed renovation may result in insufficient revenues for the Company in order to pay returns to investors or may delay the same.

NEWLY FORMED COMPANY

This is a new formed Company, it must be expected that the Company will have a negative income or loss for the first few years of operation. The Company may be forced to sale significant assets in order to continue operation or achieve the Companies goals.

No Relevant Operating History, Uncertainty of Marketable Conditions. This is a new formed Company and therefore, this Company has no operating history. Even the management of the Company believes that it can and will sell the assets of the Company in the future with profit for the Company and their investors, their can not be given any guarantee to that effect.

ADDITIONAL CAPITAL REQUIREMENT

Additional Capital Requirement. As per the investment proposal of the Company, the management believes that the Company goal can be achieved with the investment made by the investors. However, an investor must be made aware of the fact that there may be a need for additional capital by the Company. In the event the Company is not able to receive institutional funding for the capital requirements, other sources of funding may be of significant higher expense to the Company.

DEPENDENT ON MANAGEMENT

The Company's existing management is available to operate the business of the Company. None of the Company's managers or officers has an exclusive employment agreement with the Company and therefore may leave the Company at any time with or without replacement . The success of the Company may and will be seriously influenced in the event existing management or officers will be replaced .
