Re: J. L. Simpson's Land Clearing, Inc.

Dear Sir/Madam:

When my new accountants checked the status of my corporation in your website, they found out that it had been administratively dissolved for not filing the 2003 Annual Report. I know I mailed the form with a $150 payment. That check, a copy of which is attached, was cashed by your office in April, 2003. After further inquiry, we have learned that you had sent the 2003 form back to me for correction. I do not remember receiving the form back.

Since I want my corporation to stay active, I am submitting the enclosed Corporation Reinstatement form but without the required fee. I am requesting your office to waive the fee/penalty for reinstatement in view of the circumstances mentioned above. I did not know that there was something wrong with the 2003 Annual Report that I filed because I do not believe I received the form back. I am sending, however, my payment for the 2004 Annual Report for $150.00. I will send the signed form later when you have reactivated the corporation. Right now, I could not print the form from your website.

If you have any question or if you need additional information, please let me know.

Sincerely,

Jason L. Simpson
President
