Dear Mr. Singleton:

Due to the increased level of my business commitments, I find that I must make a decision that would accommodate maximizing my time and present opportunities. I am therefore tendering my resignation, effective September 16, 2003, as a director and as a consultant of the above referenced corporations. In view of the fact that I do not hold any stock nor possess any voting rights, there are no further transactions required for the final disposition of my responsibilities.

It has been a pleasant experience working with you. I wish you much success in your future business endeavors.

Sincerely,

Theodore "Ted" Lyons
