Following closer in detail the registration agent's role in accepting services of processes from other service providers in compartmentalized areas of the organization.
Registration and the registration agent's role in this context, is relatively simple if the organization has registration and aggregation carried in this capacity. A firm-level organization can typically work with a third-party provider who facilitates sending its third-party provider's completed operations to my department, and I can distribute within our organization's obligations of my responsibilities as registration agent.
