Dear Ms. Blalock:

Although I have yet to receive written communication that the above-referenced application has been rejected, I saw online that this is the case. In speaking with your office today, it is my understanding that there is a name conflict because of a previously established corporation in Miami with a similar name.

I have searched online and think that I have come up with a different (and I hope, unique) name for the proposed corporation: Dog Stars, Inc.

To that end, I am re-submitting Articles of Incorporation for your review. I was advised not to send an additional check at this time. If this is not the case, please advise me, and I will send additional payment.

Thank you for your help in this matter.

Sincerely yours,

Joyce St. Giermaine

Dear Ms. Blalock:

By now you must be sick of hearing from me. I did not realize that other corrections were needed to the original filing other than a name change. So, please disregard the other FedEx package you receive today, which will not contain documents that reflect these changes.

I think I've got this right now. Maybe the third time is the charm!

Thanks for your help.

Sincerely yours,

Joyce St. Giermaine
