To whom this may concern:

I recently received a letter from the Florida Department of State asking for my FEI number. The letter states that I had an expiration time to return the information unfortunately; I did not receive that letter until this weekend when somebody from my neighborhood brought me that letter, because supposedly the mail was wrongly placed in her box. Anyways, here my prompt response but what worries me because the money is very hard is the late fee that now due to this incident probably I have to pay, if I had received the letter on time my response would have been right away in order to have my papers in order as usually. Please, I ask you to reconsider this time since this was something that was totally out of my hand.
