Dear Sirs:

On May 7, I mistakenly filed (online) an Annual Report for ORENDA, Inc., thinking that I would use that form to report the dissolution of the corporation (as I would in Virginia). I realized before paying the annual fee that I should NOT be filing the Annual Report, but should instead have filed Articles of Dissolution.

Today, I called the Division of Corporations at 850 245 6056 to confirm what action I should take. I spoke with Marquitta, who advised me to file the enclosed Articles of Dissolution. She also advised me that when I filed this document, I would not owe the annual fee.

I confirm that other than filing this corporate name online through Sunbiz.org, no other corporation action has been taken:

- The business was not funded and no bank accounts were established
- No shares were issued
- No expenses were incurred
- No business of any kind was conducted

I am the sole person involved in creating (and abandoning) this corporation. Please let me know if any other action is necessary.

Thank you,

Martha Green
