That individual should submit a written statement saying they have no authority to file the reinstatement on behalf of the company or no affiliation. I will send this request for a refund once statement received

That is what has happened here. The person who filed did not have authority to file on behalf of the Company. What is the next step to void and refund?

The only way an annual report/reinstatement can be voided and refunded is if the one who filed it had no authority or affiliation.

Friday October 22, I submitted Company reinstatement for Specialty Risk Underwriters. I was not authorized to file this reinstatement. The Company is no longer in business.
