F. If amending or adding additional Articles, enter change(s) here:
(Attach additional sheets, if necessary) (Be specific)

1. The first step in the process of creating a new product is to identify a market need. This involves conducting market research to understand the target audience and their preferences. Once a need is identified, the next step is to develop a concept that addresses this need.

2. The second step is to create a detailed business plan. This plan should outline the company's mission, vision, and financial goals. It should also include a marketing strategy and a timeline for development and launch.

3. The third step is to secure funding. This can be done through various means, including personal savings, loans, or venture capital. Once funding is secured, the next step is to hire a team of skilled professionals to develop the product.

4. The fourth step is to develop a prototype. This involves creating a small-scale version of the product to test its functionality and gather feedback from potential users.

5. The fifth step is to conduct a pilot launch. This involves releasing the product to a small group of users to test its market fit and gather feedback.

6. The sixth step is to launch the product on a larger scale. This involves implementing the marketing strategy and distributing the product to the target audience.

7. The seventh step is to monitor the product's performance. This involves tracking sales, customer feedback, and market trends to ensure the product remains competitive and profitable.

8. The eighth step is to iterate and improve the product. Based on feedback and market trends, the product may need to be updated or improved to better meet the needs of the target audience.

9. The ninth step is to expand the product line. Once the initial product is successful, the company may want to develop new products that complement the existing line.

10. The tenth step is to establish a long-term business strategy. This involves setting goals for future growth and expansion, and implementing strategies to achieve these goals.

F. If an amendment provides for an exchange, reclassification, or cancellation of issued shares, provisions for implementing the amendment if not contained in the amendment itself:
(if not applicable, indicate N/A)
