RE: 2000 Uniform Business Report

To whom this may concern:

As you can see, we are mailing our annual Uniform Business Report and fee or $150 to you four days past the deadline. PLEASE let me explain why.

We are a very small commercial cleaning company. My wife does all of our record keeping. For the past two months, she has been seriously ill with a number of different problems that have required extensive doctor visits, iron therapy, etc., etc. (I can document this fact if needed). My wife has pretty much been confined to bed for the past month and has been doing all that she could to keep up with the record keeping for our business. She commented to me a number of times that this Business Report and fee were due very soon, but I wasn't aware that it was the first of May until I uncovered the documentation on her desk yesterday. I know that you have certain guidelines that you must follow, but my wife and I are asking that you take our situation into consideration. If you will check your records, you will see that we have never been late returning this information in all the years we have been in business. In addition to my wife's ongoing illness, I was terminated from my job in sales last week, which was our MAIN source of income. (I can also document this fact if needed). Having to pay the late fee of $400 would be a tremendous strain on our already strained budget.

We would appreciate anything you can do to help us correct this matter.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey L. Smith
