To Whom It May Concern:

I had recently received an overdue bill for the State Filing Fee for 1998. Since I have paid this amount on time for all of the years my business has been in existence, I was curious to find out why you hadn't received the check.

I called your office to verify that the check had not been received, and finding this was the case, I explained to the agent on the phone that I would check with my accountant to see if the check was cashed.

My accountant researched the issue with the bank and discovered the check was not cashed. We can only assume that the package was lost by the Post Office.

I spoke with the agent again regarding this issue, and was told to just submit the original amount in the new envelope, along with a letter of explanation, which I am doing now.

If you have any questions, please give me a call at the number above.

Thank you,

Stephen A Enchin
