Dear Sir or Madame,

I am writing this letter on behalf of my client, Spiritual Sojourns. At the beginning of June, my firm started to realize that some things sent out regular mail the week of April 12th, never made it to the end user (they disappeared some where between our office and the post office). I made several calls the first week of June to try to pinpoint all of the items that were missing, one of which was to your department. On June the fourth, I learned that Spiritual Sojourns annual report was one of the lost items. I talked to a woman named Kim and, eventually, to another woman (she never gave me her name but I believe it is "Isellers" which is the name on the request for a new annual report form to be sent). She instructed me to draft this letter explaining what had happened so Spiritual Sojourns would not be penalized (since it was a mail error).

As you can see when looking at the prior years reports, Spiritual Sojourns has always been prompt in filing their report (the information does not change from year to year, and all that is required is a signature). Please accept the enclosed check as payment in full for 1998, and, if you should receive another check after this one, please void it as it will have been voided on this end. Thank you very much for your time and the courteous service given to me by all of those I spoke with. If you have any questions, you can contact me at the number on my card attached above.

Sincerely,

Shannon Pope
