To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing to you to ask for your consideration in my late filing of my 1997 Corporation Annual Report, referenced above.

I am terribly sorry for this oversight, as I understand this filing was due on or before May 1st. My business was established last year, jointly owned and operated by myself and a business partner. Late last year my partner requested a dissolution of the partnership, which we took care of in the proper manner. Since that time I have been playing catch-up on the many aspects of the business which I had expected my partner to take care of. In my effort to keep the doors open and business flowing uninterrupted I made a mistaken assumption that my accountant would keep me advised of the legal filing requirements and deadlines.

My attention has been focused on the day to day demands of starting and maintaining a small business. The first year was quite a challenge, with many lessons learned the hard way. As is typical of most small businesses any losses due to penalties or other avoidable costs can be very damaging to the undertaking. I am working hard every day to do what is necessary to make this dream of mine a viable reality.

Though I well understand that the State of Florida has a clear policy regarding filing dates and penalties for late submittals, I would greatly appreciate your consideration by accepting this filing at this late date. I now have a clearer understanding with my accountant so that future filings will be well within the required timeframe.

Thank you so much.

Sincerely.

Donnalea Goelz
