CERTIFIED MAIL

June 30, 1999

Dear Sir/Madam:

As of today I am in receipt of the second notice of the Florida Corporate Annual Return. Unfortunately I have never received the first notice at all.

I have a small company and the corporate adress is the same as my personal one. I have had a lot of problems getting proper mail deliveries going back about 6 months. I am on record having complained about this to my local main branch (Fl. Lauderdale-on Oakland Park Blvd.) several times over the last few months; the latest being on friday 06/25/99 for not receiving any mail for 2 consecutive days.

I personally have missed payments on phone, credit card and insurance bills because of their terrible service being provided on this route.

I have been an officer of this corporation since 1996 and previously been an officer of Tile of South Florida, Inc. for several years. The record shows I always paid my return on time.

I immediately called your office and was advised to proceed with a written explanation of these facts and remit the original amount that was due ($150). Should this remittence be unexeptable for any reason would you please direct me as to where can I appeal for an administrative hearing regarding this matter? This is a small business and it would make a big difference in paying a fee of $150 versus $550 especially when I am not at fault.

Sincerely,

Julius Toth/President
