Dear Sean,

I just wanted to take a moment and than you for your time and patience on the phone last Thursday. It is so refreshing to have someone on the other end, actually listen to what you have to say, before telling you what to do. I work for an accounting firm and talk to different states all the time and was not looking forward to the call because usually everyone is so rude. But, I was very pleased with your manner and the suggestions you gave me to fix the problem.

As per your instructions, I am enclosing a check for $150.00. Our client had an address change and does not always get all of his mail, especially when it has his corporate name on it. We have changed the form on the inside to reflect the address change, and we would also like to have any future mail be addressed to MABAS, c/o Mark Sacks. This should ensure that all future communications will be received by Mr. Sacks who is responsible for this corporation.

In addition as their accountants, we would request that we also be sent a copy of all future communications, to avoid any mishap whatsoever. If you need Mr. Sacks to write a letter for that, just let me know, and I will have him forward one too you.

The second one Global Now, Inc. has basically the same problem. They also had an address change, and never received the original papers. We changed the information, so now they should get all of their mail properly.

Thanks again Sean, I hope you are as nice to everyone as you were to me. Have a good week.

Respectfully,

Chari Hayes
