Dear Katherine Harris,

On a phone conversation to Michelle Milligan on April 4, 2001 I stated to her that I was informed by a new insurance agency from which I was applying for General Liability that I was no longer Incorporated. I receive a renewal application every year to renew my small business for incorporation and upon receipt I forward it to my accountant. The 2000 year came and went and I never received my renewal. There are so many obligations involved in my business that I was unaware of receiving my 2000 application. After purchasing General Liability insurance it was brought to my attention that the Florida Department of State, Division of Corporations did not have the accurate address for which to send in my renewal for incorporation. I have sent a copy of a document the agent pulled up from the internet proving that The Florida Department of State did in fact have the wrong mailing address. As it States at the bottom of the page my address was subject to change on May 13, 1997. I have received all applications up until the year 2000. Please wave the penalties and interest and accept my 2000 and 2001 application for reinstatement. I regret the fact that I was informed by the insurance agency that I was no longer incorporated because with the form for renewal in my hand there would have been no reason it would not have been returned to you renewed. Please accept my renewal and wave the fees other than the renewal charges that Michelle Milligan and I spoke in reference to on April 4, 2001.

Sincerely,

Danita Tennison, President
