Dear Sirs,

I am resending in my original check and the paperwork attached, as requested when I spoke to a woman in your department.

I originally sent the check and paperwork on April 17, 1999. The post office returned it to me 12 days ago, June 29th, with a message stamped "Not deliverable, postage due". I had mistakenly put a generic one-cent stamp on the envelope instead of the generic 33 cent stamp.

The woman I spoke to in your department requested that I send the original check and the paperwork back to you at this address and you would be able to process the paperwork.

I apologize for the delay, had the post office sent the letter back sooner, I would have been able to resend it again before the filing deadline.

Thank you,

Gerald R. Hershey
