RE: Late Filing of the Annual Report

We have been working a great deal out of the United States and had to file late tax returns. This being our first year in business, we knew that some form of report was due and our accountant had said that a report form would be sent by your office. No report form was ever received by us or our accountant. All other state and federal forms have been completed and returned on time.

As soon as we learned that the report was past due, we called for and just received (June 24) the enclosed form. I do not feel that under the circumstances, we should be required to pay the late fee, especially since that is a considerable tax on a business the size of ours. Therefore, I am enclosing a check in the amount of $150.00. The required filing fee.

Sincerely,
