Re: Six Hearts Inc

Dear Sir/Madam;

The name of my corporation was derived from my six children who being raised by a 'Single Mom' have proven to possess caring and loving hearts. The past eighteen years of my life was dedicated to raising my six children single handedly. Their father refused to contribute financially and in order to get away with it he lived the life of a fugitive, skipping from State to State, hence he could not be located for child support.

Despite the struggles and challenges we endured, four of the six children are college graduates, two holding a bachelor's degree, one with a masters and the other a PHD in Philosophy. Currently the two youngest are college students.

My dreams of building my own publication company was very much alive as I had written my first book in 1997, but my #1 priority was the financial stability of my family. Shortly after the launch of the book I was unable to maintain the corporation and could not afford the annual renewal fees. Two years later I was forced to make a choice, I had to set the corporation aside and enter the financial industry and work my way up the ladder. Since then I have written my second book and my two older sons have completed their first books.

After many years of lack and deprivation my life is finally taking a positive turn. I am now in management in the banking industry and I am fortunate to have met a decent and responsible human being whom I recently married. My husband has promised to help me realize my dream by assisting me to get my company back on track. He has agreed to pay the re-instatement fees, therefore, I am asking kindly if the penalties could be waived due to the circumstances.

My husband and I will be able to maintain the corporation and pay the renewal fees when they become due.

Thanking you in advance for granting my request.

Sincerely,

Nina Harmon
