Dear Division of Corporations,

Please accept this letter on our behalf as an explanation for our late filing of our Corporation Annual Report.

We are submitting $150 in lieu of the fact that we had never received any documentation stating that we needed to file. We did not receive the necessary papers to file our year end report and the fee through the mail. The following explanation provides an account as to why we feel we should not be penalized.

As a new business, we were completely unaware of the filing fee as expected by May of each year. Therefore we did not take note of the fact that we had never received the filing documentation. Since we had never done a single dollar of sales, nor do we even have a bank account, we did not realize we still needed to file. We had been filing all other state and formal IRS documents (provided zeros only) as per our requirements.

Our intentions were not to avoid the filing fee or the paperwork, moreover, it was just a simple unintentional mistake. In fact, had we not decided to try to make our initial venture work (give it another go), we still would not have realized our mistake.

We are asking that you take the time to understand our predicament and excuse us from the penalty fee of $400.

We appreciate your willingness to cooperate with us in helping to clear up this matter as soon as possible.

Thank you for time.
