September 13, 2001

Dear Division of Corporations,

Apparently, I have missed the ball. I thought that the initial Uniformed Business Report was due Sept. 12, 2001, and I had intended on submitting payment of $150.00 to the state of Florida for that report, postmarking it right around the 10th or the 11th. I am now writing you and submitting this amount a day late on Sept. 13th because, to be honest, I have been totally distracted by the terrorism attacks, in particular the ones in New York, as I have family who live and work in New York City. However, in talking with someone at your help-line number, I realize now that not only am I late for the Sept. 12th deadline, but I am also late for the initial deadline of May 1, 2001 which I didn't realize was the due date. In trying to rectify the situation at this point, I ask you at this time to use your discretion in dealing with this matter. I feel warranted in missing this second deadline, but I am unsure about the first one. I either simply overlooked that first deadline, or I never received the form that I am sure you mail out well in advance as a reminder. Again, I can't be sure if I overlooked paying it at that time, or if I wasn't notified (that seems unlikely to me from a logical perspective, but I really don't remember receiving it in the mail at all). In any case, I appreciate your consideration of this situation, and respect your review of this honest statement about the UBR for 2001 for my company.

With Much Appreciation,

Ben Ruby
