Dear Sir or Madam:

I recently went on line to your website to verify the availability of Atom Technologies, Inc., a new business I am considering starting, when I noticed that my current business was listed as inactive. I called the number given at the website and was told that I had never renewed my corporation. After going over the information the State had on my business, I realized that the documents were sent to my old address and not knowing it was necessary to do so, I did not notify the State of this change. My previous address belongs to my parents and although I was no longer living with them, I assumed I would receive all mail sent to me. My parents are elderly and did not realize the importance of these papers and though I'd be receiving them at my new address as well. After conversing with the person I spoke to at the Department of State, I discussed the situation with my parents, of course they have no recollection of receiving these documents, and as they are on a fixed income, cannot afford to reimburse me for the required fees. My business can barely afford the $150.00 fee let alone the penalty. At this point it would be less expensive to let Atom Computers, Inc. be dissolved and just begin the new business I was contemplating when this whole mess began.

I feel my business could afford the original fee and possibly additional $150.00 but my business income is less than $1200 a month, and there is no possible way I can pay the $750.00 the Department of State requires to renew my corporation.

Please help me with this matter, as I am at a total loss as to what to do. My new address is 1121 Sherbrook Drive, Deltona, Florida 32725. All correspondence should be sent to this address! I look forward to your response!

Sincerely,

Peter Aramondo
President
Atom Computers, Inc.

Dear Sirs,

I did not receive the previous notices.

Thank you,
Pete Aramondo
