Re: Lamni Co., Inc., 1999 Annual Report

To Whom It May Concern:

I represent Lamni Co., Inc. and have recently received notification from you that the corporation, above referenced, has been administratively dissolved for non-filing of the 1999 annual report. Upon receipt of this Notice, I forwarded same to my client immediately.

My client advises that she did file the 1999 annual report directly with the Department of State and paid the filing fees due in this regard. I have a copy of her report form along with her check. Unfortunately, due to a change of personnel, my client is not able to locate her bank statements or canceled checks for the months immediately subsequent to the filing of this annual report, and is now conducting a thorough search to locate her records in order to confirm whether or not the check has been negotiated.

In the interim, it is imperative that this corporation be reinstated to remain active and current.

I have enclosed the filing fee of $150.00 along with copies of her annual report form and the reinstatement form. Both contain the original signature of my client in order that you may process this request.

I want to inquire as to whether or not you will consider waiving the reinstatement and penalty fees in light of the foregoing as I believe the original annual report form to have been lost, although timely filed.

Very truly yours,
