Satisfying Your Ophthalmology Needs

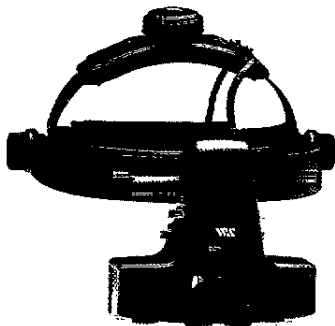

Scanoptics SO-5000 Ophthalmic Microscope

Scanoptics manufactures ophthalmic instruments to work under the most difficult conditions. Quality, portability and robustness are the features that define this line. The new SO-5000 can be mounted on its base or on the wall and works with AC or battery. Made from non-ferrous material to prevent oxidation and treated with an anti-fungal solution, it is ideal for work in aggressive environments. The optical system has features to satisfy the most demanding requirements, and the wide range of accessories ensures extraordinary performance.

New Welch Allyn Power Handle

A new design with a handle half the weight and double the power capacity has been added to the legendary quality WA products. With up to 110 minutes of load, built of ultra-light resin with a low load indicator, a new Lithium ion battery and retractable plug-in charging module, are just some of the features of this new product. As usual, it is compatible with the entire range of WA 3.5 diagnostic sets.

Welch Allyn Binocular Indirect Ophthalmoscope (BIO)

(BIO) is an instrument designed and built by Welch Allyn. Its light and solid construction guarantees the comfort and durability you require in an instrument purchased for Indirect Ophthalmic procedures. Filter control, mirror alignment, distance between pupils and head adjustment are easily accessible. The BIO also comes with a wide range of accessories: power source, case for transportation, instruction mirror, scleral depressor and background charts.

Welch Allyn SureSight Portable Automatic Refractometer

The SureSight lets you perform an accurate and quick sight examination using a portable instrument that is particularly appropriate for working with children. The ease with which refractory deviation can be detected makes it ideal for this procedure, which accounts for a high percentage of ophthalmic pathologies in children. It is fully automatic, does not needing the patient's cooperation and its easy to handle. These are just some of the features of this new instrument.
