What are your chances of having a heart attack?

To help answer that question, Mariners Hospital offers:

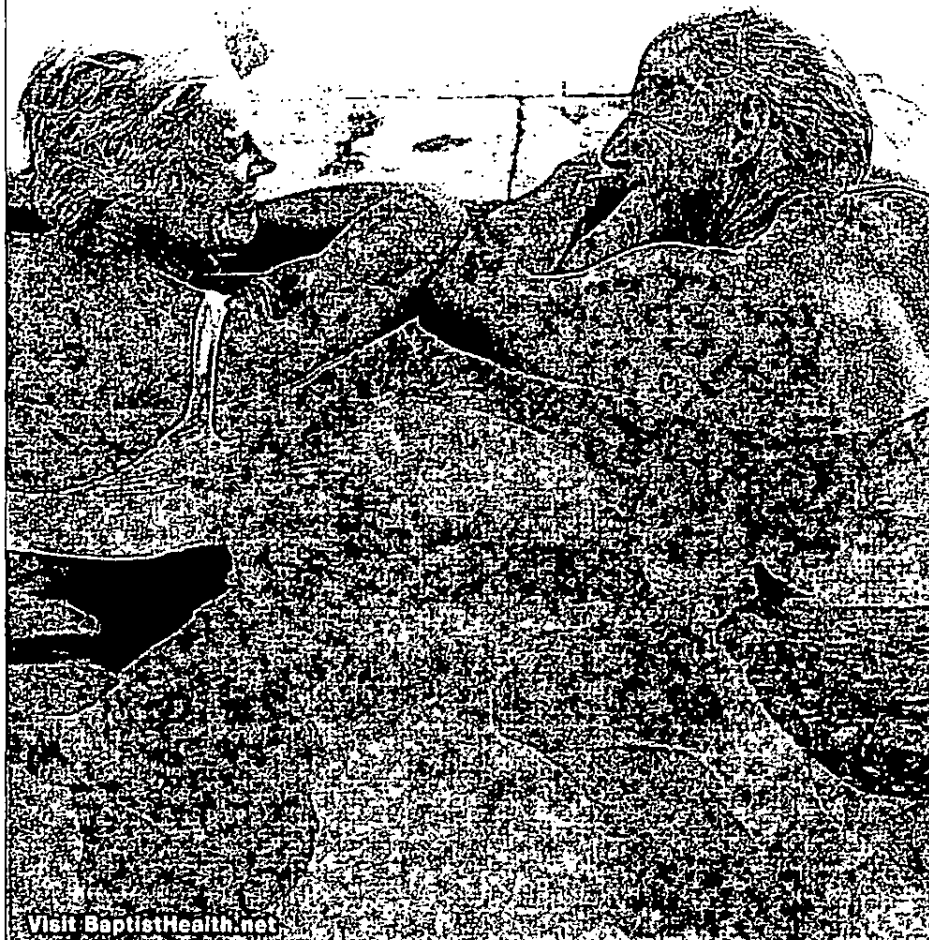

- Coronary computed tomography angiography (CTA) — a noninvasive heart imaging study that visualizes plaque buildup narrowing your coronary arteries, which can lead to a heart attack.
- Calcium scoring — checks for evidence of heart disease.
- Stress test — determines the amount of physical stress your heart can manage.
- Echocardiogram — studies blood flow through the valves and evaluates the structure of your heart.

- MUGA scan — produces a moving image of the beating heart and calculates cardiac output, which helps determine the heart's functional capacity.
- Electrocardiogram (EKG) — traces the heart's electrical activity and helps diagnose heart disease, including arrhythmias.

If your family history and other factors place you at a higher risk for heart disease, talk with your doctor about coming to Mariners Hospital for a thorough picture of what's happening to your heart and blood vessels. For more information or to schedule a diagnostic cardiac test, call 305-434-1588.
