FCRM

FLORIDA CIVIL RIGHTS MUSEUM, INC.

LEON COUNTY DIVISION OF THE
FLORIDA CIVIL RIGHTS MUSEUM, INC.

The Leon County Division of the Florida Civil Rights Museum, Inc. was established to display, protect, and preserve the stories, legacies, and institutions that exist to illuminate the history of civil rights leaders in Florida's Capital County. The museum is significant as the only statewide-focused civil rights museum in Florida, headquartered in the capital city.

In 2010, the Florida Legislature unanimously enacted the Florida Civil Rights Hall of Fame, with the intent to recognize and honor those persons, living or dead, who have made significant contributions to this state as leaders in the struggle for equality and justice for all persons. Since that time, 24 individuals have been selected for induction into the civil rights hall of fame. Though this extraordinary act of the legislature is critically important, there have been no new inductees included in the hall since 2019. Additionally, the existence of a fully functional institution to serve as a repository for the pertinent and significant documentation of this history at both the local level and statewide, is sorely needed.

The curation of exhibits, including virtual, traditional, and traveling displays, will serve to enlighten members of the public about the contributions of historical figures whose commitment to the advancement of equal opportunity made life better for all. A statewide convention would serve to put heads in beds, increase tourism, and contribute to economic development in Leon County. Through partnerships with various sites, universities, libraries, local governments and institutes, all persons, whether they be resident, or visitor, will be treated to pertinent historical information heretofore unknown to most. The creation of a database, and subsequent dissemination of such information to the public will enhance the knowledge of many, and further stimulate the intellectual curiosity of the visitor. Of the many initiatives created by the Leon County Division of the FCRM, providing significant research for the creation of civil rights heritage walks and interactive historical markers in select Florida counties, beginning with the restoration and refurbishment of the Tallahassee-Leon County Civil Rights Heritage Walk, will also serve to honor and preserve this history in a unique and attractive fashion.

Through the Leon County Division of the FCRM, visitors will be encouraged to visit other sites, locally, regionally, and statewide, which hold a connection to Leon County's civil rights and education pioneers. These institutions and/or sites include: The Reubin O'D. Askew School of Public Administration and Policy; Claude Pepper Center; LeRoy Collins Institute; The Grove; John Gilmore Riley Center/Museum; Carrie Meek-James N. Eaton, Sr. Southeastern Regional Black Archives Research Center and Museum; and others.

Leon County Division of the Florida Civil Rights Museum, Inc.

The Leon County Division of the Florida Civil Rights Museum, Inc. seeks funding to support a civil rights museum in Florida's Capital County. This historic initiative will increase tourism and cultural enhancement throughout Tallahassee and Leon County. Partnerships with libraries, community centers, colleges, universities, and other institutions will serve to increase knowledge of the Floridians who have made significant contributions throughout the state.

What specific purpose or goal will be achieved by the funds requested?

This project is an initiative designed to produce a model community-based curriculum that will educate students and the general public on the lives and legacies of Leon County's civil rights leaders and educational pioneers, regardless of race, color, creed, or national origin. In addition, funding will be used to develop a statewide consortium of libraries, and community centers which will provide educational information to students, residents, tourists, researchers, to include those completing theses and/or dissertations. This information will be made available worldwide to colleges, universities and the general public via social media platforms and an interactive virtual component.

What activities and services will be provided to meet the intended purpose of these funds?

The Leon County Division of the Florida Civil Rights Museum, Inc.'s staff will conduct research and present the historical contributions of various civil rights leaders and educational pioneers in Leon County. Tours, educational workshops, training sessions, and symposia will be held to educate students attending public/private schools, colleges, those pursuing graduate degrees, researchers, scholars, residents, and the general public. Educational materials produced will adhere to Sunshine State Standards, and prepared curricula will contribute to tourism and cultural enhancement across all strata.

What direct services will be provided to citizens by the appropriation project?

Direct services include the establishment and maintenance of a repository of documents, publications, photographs and artifacts, which will highlight those whose civil rights contributions are significant to Leon County, Florida. There will also be a database available for online research, as well as onsite use. Services will be provided through informational sessions, annual meetings/conferences, workshops, exhibits and virtual sessions.

Who is the target population served by this project? How many individuals are expected to be served?

Target populations include all persons (in the city, county, state, nation or worldwide) who are seeking to expand their level of knowledge regarding the contributions of Leon Countians and Floridians who were pioneers in the area of civil rights and/or education. Students, researchers, scholars, community advocates, authors, and masters or doctoral degree candidates will also benefit. Between 600,000-750,000* individuals are expected to be served by this project. *The current COVID-19 pandemic necessitates virtual delivery of most services.

What is the expected benefit or outcome of this project? What is the methodology by which this outcome will be measured?

To increase the level of awareness of well-known and unknown civil rights and education pioneers, who have made significant contributions to Leon County and Florida. The Leon County Division of the FCRM will determine the baseline knowledge level of its audiences through the administration of pretests and will ascertain the level of knowledge gained through posttests. Through follow-up contacts, the Leon County Division of the FCRM will ascertain whether the information was useful to whatever projects the users are engaged in, e.g., school report, thesis, dissertation, research project, etc.
