To all it may concern:

I am writing regarding the enclosed request for a late fee. I am asking that you please forgive me this additional fee. I had not realized that I should have enclosed a letter of explanation as to why my payment was late. Actually, I did not mean that it be late. I am the owner of a very small business. I have three customers. They do not pay me in a timely manner. I was trying hard to get this payment in on time and sent it in as soon as I had enough funds to cover my check.

If you would check my payment standing, you should find that I am not in the habit of paying things late with your office or any other. Moreover, I do not mean to demean the idea of things being paid on a timely basis. It has just been a little tough this year for some, and I have let my customers slide as long as possible before phoning them and begging for payment. I realize that is my problem, not yours, but in building a business, sometimes that is what we have to put up with in order to make payroll.

I am asking you please, to see your way clear, to forgive me this one time, as this fee is quite steep for me.

Thanking you in advance for any grace you might choose to give me,

Sincerely,

Sandra Bellew
